

Argumentative Essay Outline Example

I. Introduction

A. Hook: Start your essay with a strong statement or an anecdote that will grab the reader's attention and make them want to read more

B. Background Information: Provide information about the topic, why it is important, and how you plan to address it in your essay

C. Thesis Statement: State your stance on the issue and provide a brief explanation of why you believe what you do

II. Body Paragraph 1

A. Topic Sentence: Introduce the first point of discussion for this paragraph

B. Evidence/Supporting Ideas: Provide evidence from reliable sources or personal experience that supports your first point

C. Explanation/Analysis: Explain why this evidence supports your first point

III. Body Paragraph 2

A. Topic Sentence: Introduce the second point of discussion for this paragraph

B. Evidence/Supporting Ideas: Provide evidence from reliable sources or personal experience that supports your second point

C. Explanation/Analysis: Explain why this evidence supports your second point

IV. Body Paragraph 3

A. Topic Sentence: Introduce the third and final point of discussion for this paragraph

B. Evidence/Supporting Ideas: Provide evidence from reliable sources or personal experience that supports your third point

C. Explanation/Analysis: Explain why this evidence supports your third point

V. Conclusion

A. Summary: Summarize the main points of your essay

B. Reiteration of Thesis Statement: Restate your thesis statement in a way that emphasizes how it has been proven throughout your essay

C. Closing Sentence/Thought-Provoking Question: End your essay with a meaningful conclusion or thought-provoking question to leave your reader with something to think about

VI. Works Cited

A. List all the sources you used the given format.